BACKGROUND AND DISCUSSION

The landmark bipartisan Family First Prevention Services Act (FFPSA) of 2018 represented the most significant reform to federal child welfare policy in decades. FFPSA includes long-overdue historic reforms to help keep children safely with their families and avoid the traumatic experience of entering foster care, emphasizes the importance of children growing up in families, and helps ensure children are placed in the least restrictive, most family-like setting appropriate to their special needs when foster care is needed. FFPSA calls on states to radically rethink their approach to child protection and family support, and full implementation of the law will be a years-long process.

In California, beginning November 1, 2021, the FFPSA adjusted the federal child welfare financing streams, Title IV-E and Title IV-B of the Social Security Act to authorize the use of federal Title IV-E funding for specified services to families who have a child at imminent risk of entering foster care and to limit reliance on congregate care.

Sean Hughes of Social Change Partners, LLC is a recognized national expert on FFPSA and has provided technical assistance on implementation of the law across California and several other states. As a resident of Napa County, he has worked extensively with local community-based organizations in Napa County and came highly recommended by those entities.

Extending the term of this contract and modifying the deadline due dates, accordingly, will allow HHSA Child Welfare Services to meet State deadlines.
